

WE CURE VARICOCELE IN FIVE DAYS.

Are you afflicted with Varicocele or its results—Impotence and Testicular Enlargement? Are you worried about your future? Do you lack your physical energy and ambition? Is there a dragging-down weight in the left Spermatic cord or a pain in the testicle? Are you suffering from impotency and weakness generally? Are you suffering from varicocele? Are you suffering from enlargement of the sensitive organs of your Pelvic system, and it is a drag to you over your body? Do you feel that you are not fit for your wife? Do you feel that you are not fit for your family? That you are not fit for your wife? Who would be considerate of your own personal life? Even though it gives you no trouble at present it will ultimately harm you, and if you continue to do so, you will be less and less able to exert yourself. It makes no difference what treatment you have had. We can tell you to stop. We have had to tell you to stop because we cannot cure. Who wants to try our Medicines Electric that we cannot cure. Who wants to try our Medicines Electric that we cannot cure.

We treat thousands of cases where the ordinary physician treats one.

OUR ELECTRO-CHEMICAL METHOD. Treatment is a positive salve, the advantages to be derived from the simplest operation being that it is safe and permanent. It is not the removal of the many disadvantages. It compares to the old-time dangerous way of the knife. Light does to the candle. Under our treatment the stagnation is forced from the dilated veins, all sorrows and pain disappears, the veins resume their normal size and a healthy circulation of pure blood is restored. The organs are established, you are strengthened in every way—mentally, physically and sexually.

THROW AWAY YOUR SUSPENSORY and concepts us to try. You dare another summer of torture. Investigate our treatment by letter and with the advice of your physician. We will give you the title in the purchase of real estate. We will give you the title in the purchase of real estate. We have cured. We have ourselves tried all the different methods of treating this disease, and know from actual experience that we can assure you the quietest and most reliable cure obtainable. Cure in 20 days. Any one affected with varicocele, who has been treated by other physicians, has not tried our electro-chemical treatment, we will refund. We can guarantee you a safe, efficient, painless and permanent. Neglected. Neglected. Neglected. Neglected. Neglected. Neglected. Neglected.

STRICTURE and GLEET. In particular, we have got to see the case of the stricture. We can assure you that the electro-chemical treatment is the best and most effective treatment for the stricture. We can assure you that the electro-chemical treatment is the best and most effective treatment for the stricture.

permanence, we have got to see the case of the stricture. We can assure you that the electro-chemical treatment is the best and most effective treatment for the stricture.

We also treat successfully all Chronic, Nervous and Special Diseases of Men.

WRITE if unable to call. Consultation and Examination Free. Hours, 9 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Sundays, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Take elevator to eighth floor.

Drs. FRANCIS & FRANCIS, 814 Holland Bldg., 211 N. 7th St., Near Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

YELLOW TAIL HAD IT HIS OWN WAY.

The Conqueror Got Off Badly and the Big California Horse Walked Home.

WOUNDED KNEE WAS SECOND.

Louis Lemp Has a Promising Derby Candidate in the Son of Foul Shot—Alard Scheck and Ampere Both Scored.

Yellow Tail, the inaugural winner, galloped over his field in the fourth race at the Fair Grounds yesterday. Pat Tomlinson's black whirled. The Conqueror was expected to give Yellow Tail an argument, but Tomlinson's horse received a poor send-off and never figured prominently in the race.

Thorpe broke in front with Yellow Tail and the flying son of Watercolor carried his field down the back stretch at a terrific gait. He had his horses beat to death at the eighth pole and "came home on the 14," three lengths in front of Wounded Knee, a handsome brown colt by Imp. Foul Shot—Valencia, that was bred by Doctor C. W. Crowley, and races in the colors of Louis Lemp & Co.

Wounded Knee's performance was the surprise of the race. It was the colt's first start this season, and few thought he had a chance to finish in the money. In addition to Yellow Tail, Capton and The Conqueror were the only to hold him back, but Wounded Knee closed through the stretch like a house on fire, and was running over his horse at the finish.

The Conqueror is far from being the 2-year-old his owner and trainer Pat Tomlinson predicted he would develop into. Late summer when The Conqueror was beaten in the Kentucky Derby, he was the best horse in the country. Pat said he would win the Western Derby of 1900 with the black son of Sir Isaac, but the horse has not emerged from a winter of rest beyond a small stake at Little Rock.

Alard Scheck, supposed to be the best 2-year-old in the country, made his debut in the second race. Alard is a handsome, bay, brown colt, by Hindoo-Cherry Blossom, and while he didn't beat Thorpe, he did win his race and gave his fans confidence in his future. Alard Scheck worked well, and the Conqueror put in a good performance, but failed to hold the lead at a short price. Scheck had plenty of speed, but Thorpe beat him to the front as soon as the gates were opened.

Britton's selection on Fair Grounds races on Saturday had a bad start.

TOMMY WALSH INJURED.

Jockey Thrown From Moxay in the Third Race at Morris Park.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Racing at West Morris Park this evening was marred by a serious accident. A field of ten 2-year-olds were running down the Eclipse Course at full tilt, and the jockey for the third horse from the start had wagged on. Suddenly there was a commotion in the middle of the bunch. A horse had bolted.

It was a dash of orange and bone color, which told the crowd that Moxay had come down in the midst of that struggling, trampling crowd of young thoroughbreds.

Thus the dust had everything for a horse race, and with the result that the horse was seen racing away after the jockey had wagged on. A little picturesqueness was lying in the middle of the track. It was Jockey Jimmy Gahan, who had just come from California tracks and who came to New York to serve with Louis V. Hall and win his laurels on the Metropolitan track.

A jockey, however, is not the man to be easily frightened, and he held his horse firmly in his hands, and the two of them extricated themselves before the season's mid-point. Alard Scheck worked well, and the Conqueror put in a good performance, but failed to hold the lead at a short price. Scheck had plenty of speed, but Thorpe beat him to the front as soon as the gates were opened.

Alard Scheck, the 2-year-old racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool, Morris Volmer, his owner, had captured another purse for his owners yesterday. At Georgetown Hill, Mo., and Thibault were the only ones left in the first race yesterday, but when it came to the sprint at the end, Alard closed like a stake horse and won ridden by a length. Fred Fleischner, who had a 100-yarder to the finish, started to drive him and Morris beat him two lengths for the place.

For the third race, John's handy racing tool,